JRTLE is a scholarly double-blind peer-reviewed open-access international scientific journal that publishes highly-qualified original research and review articles quarterly. Articles may span the full spectrum of techno-based language education across the breath of English language learning/teaching, teaching translation and literature. Moreover, the Journal specially focuses on such issues as educational techno-based related theories, psychology, and practical implications of technology in language education.

JRTLE is an open access journal which means that all content is freely available without charge to the user or his/her institution. Users are allowed to read, download, copy, distribute, print, search, or link to the full texts of the articles, or use them for any other lawful purpose, without asking prior permission from the publisher or the author. This is in accordance with the Budapest Open Access Initiative (BOAI) definition of open access.
